

60TH ANNIVERSARY NEWS

PENNA. LEGISLATURE WOULD BROADEN CELEBRATION SCOPE

Misleading Newspaper Articles—Calculated to Place the Town in Wrong Attitude.

The Legislature of Pennsylvania has under consideration the broadening of the scope of the 50th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg and very properly so. When the celebration was first considered, it was conceived as an opportunity for a magnificent peace demonstration. Senator Heyburn rightly declared that a struggle of brothers is never commemorated and advised that the celebration should be one entirely commemorating peace and national unity. Such a celebration would include every surviving veteran of the war North and South and everyone else who desired to come here. To confine the celebration to the survivors of the battle was giving the event a narrowness of conception entirely foreign to the reason for the event. The COMPILER has drawn attention to this feature several times.

The Senate of Pennsylvania last week passed the following concurrent resolution which was sent to the House for concurrence:

Whereas, Certain acts and resolutions passed by the several General Assemblies and approved by their Excellencies Governors Stuart and Tener, creating a commission being known as The Fifteenth Anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg Commission.

Whereas, Limitations have been placed upon the former soldiers of the Civil War who should be invited as guests of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania during July 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th by including only those who participated in the Battle of Gettysburg and who enlisted and served prior to July 4th, 1863.

Whereas, The National Government will provide sanitary tenting quarters and rations for the old soldiers of the Civil War who will be present during the aforesaid period.

Whereas, The exercises upon July 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th, upon the Battlefield of Gettysburg will probably be the most impressive ceremony the world has ever known.

Therefore be it Resolved, (if the House concur), that the Commission of the Fifteenth Anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg be respectively and earnestly requested to broaden the scope of the provisions made for the attendance as guests of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania upon that historical occasion so as to include all Union Soldiers, sailors and marines of the Civil War now living in Pennsylvania, also such men who served in Pennsylvania commands known as Emergency Troops, also all soldiers who served in the Confederate Army now living in Pennsylvania as citizens of this Commonwealth. A copy of this resolution, when approved, to be forwarded to the President of the Commission for consideration and action.

It is to be hoped that the resolution will be adopted and carried out, for a peace celebration with a limited meaning or significance could never be made to have the appearance it should have. To have a celebration on Pennsylvania soil and not invite all veterans as the resolution proposes would make the great Keystone State look small alongside of some sister State in which no limitation is being made.

Of course broadening the scope as should be done will bring a larger crowd to Gettysburg but the certainty of that fact from following the sentiments of such a resolution will make those responsible for the celebration see the necessity of preparing for larger numbers than at present proposed. There are over 50,000 veterans in Pennsylvania, who would come within those mentioned in the concurrent resolution. What proportion of these would come to Gettysburg during the celebration with transportation provided? Gen. Thos. J. Stewart is the authority for the assertion that whenever transportation has been provided to monument dedications, over eighty per cent. have participated. A conservative estimate of sixty per cent. would bring 30,000 alone from Pennsylvania. The New York appropriation is large enough to bring 25,000 here and a 60 per cent. attendance of veterans who would be qualified to come from New York State would bring more than that number from that State and add the number coming from all other sections of the country it is inconceivable how anyone will refuse to accept the reasonable conclusion that from 60,000 to 75,000 veterans will be here. Facing such a conclusion no reasonable being can afford to shut their eyes and head to the accompanying conclusion that as many of the general public will attend as the veterans. When the Pennsylvania Arch was dedicated the railroads brought to Gettysburg over 11,000 people, and not one-half were veterans coming on free transportation. Any preparation that does not prepare for the care of from 100,000 to 125,000 people will be inadequate and the full, willing capacity of the town of 15,000, doing its utmost, can give but little help in the care of such an immense throng.

Misleading News Stories. Misleading statements are being made in the city newspapers about the preparations for the celebration. The "Public Ledger" of last Sunday stated that "every man, woman and child in the great throng estimated at from 150,000 to 200,000 must be cared for."

for and that this great task is in charge of Major James E. Normoyle, Quartermaster's Corps, U. S. A. "This should be made the great task of the United States through its army officers but has not yet been made so. The information has come personally from the officers here that the act of Congress has been legally construed that camp accommodations can only be given veterans. This provision must be enlarged, and if necessary by congressional action, to apply to every man, woman or child. Such provision will necessitate a much larger camp and the quicker steps are taken toward this end the better.

A bill was introduced in Congress recently providing a medal for every veteran who fought at Gettysburg. It is thought there may be some objection to this on the ground that it may be followed by other bills providing medals for veterans of other battles. If Congress makes no such provision it is said to be among the possibilities that Pennsylvania will make provision for a medal for the occasion.

A New Local Attitude.

J. D. Keith, Esq., at a meeting of the Town Council last week made the following statement in the nature of a report for the committee authorized at the January meeting to ask assistance from the 50th Anniversary of Battle of Gettysburg Commission, that "Everything the town requested had been granted," meaning thereby as later explained, that the three things asked by the Town Council committee, police, hospital and latrines had been granted.

Mr. Keith very properly reports what his committee had accomplished but then goes out of his way to pat the commission on the back and slap his own town people in the face as follows: "He further intimated that most of the criticism which has been expressed in Gettysburg concerning the commission and its individual members is unwarranted, that they are attending carefully and thoroughly to all the details, even the most minute matters receiving their attention, and that the request of the committee of council for assistance was met in a very fair manner and followed with an appropriation of $5000 for the erection of latrines and rest stations about the town."

We utterly fail to comprehend the reason or occasion for taking credit for getting everything wanted by the town, not only without any acknowledgment of the work of citizens that have been assisting toward making the granting of the requests possible when they came to be asked, but also in effect discrediting those who have worked unselfishly and loyally for the good of the town.

Severely Crushed.

Pinned between a cement platform and a freight car in a space about 7 inches wide, John B. King of York, who weighs 200 pounds, narrowly escaped having his life crushed out of him at the York Manufacturing plant Monday afternoon of last week. Mr. King had two ribs on left side fractured front and back, his left shoulder dislocated and was bruised and hurt internally.

Mr. King is employed in the shipping department of the plant. He was walking along the switch in the company's yard. Several freight cars were being shifted and he was caught between a long car and platform. There was no way of escape. The situation was seen by brakeman on another car and another employee but not in time to prevent the accident. He was pinned in the narrow space in a way that no one could get at him immediately and he twisted himself out of the position. The injured man never lost consciousness. Dr. L. H. Fackler examined him and had him taken to his home immediately. Later in the evening he was examined by Dr. S. K. Pfaltzgraff and Dr. William F. Bacon and his condition is slowly improving. Mr. King was formerly an engineer on the W. M. R. R. and is a son of Mrs. Sarah B. King and brother of Mrs. Wm. Arch. McClean of this place.

Gone to Florida.

Gustavus Culp and wife, of Centennial Ave. Hanover, left last Wednesday for Orlando, Florida, where they will make their future home. Mr. Culp's health and a lengthy visit to Florida led to their determination to remove there, as his health showed great improvement in that genial climate. Many friends here will wish them health and prosperity in their new home. Mr. Culp went to Hanover from near Fairfield, Adams county, where he was in the lumbering business and operated a saw mill. He continued to conduct this business very successfully during his residence in Hanover, and by integrity and strict attention to business, combined with a genial manner, established a high reputation as a business man in that town.

Sunday Night Robbery.

The meat store of Emory Forrest on York street was entered Sunday night through the rear door and $8.00 stolen, $6.00 of it from the money drawer and $2.00 for broken gas meter, the only damage done being the breaking of the meter.

Town Council Meeting.

At the regular February meeting of Town Council last week John E. Pitzer, Calvin Heagy, S. N. Hartzell, M. F. Williams and Andrew Hartman appeared for themselves and a number of backmen and stated that they were among twenty-three who paid their back licenses for 1912 and asked council either to refund the license to them or that the other people in the same business be compelled to pay for that year.

A back license ordinance was passed last spring on passenger carrying capacity of vehicles and repealing the former ordinance under which the 23 hackmen paid. The new ordinance was vetoed by Burgess Holtzworth and never became a law. The Burgess was advised that the old ordinance would not stand a legal test, made no further effort to collect, and the 23 hackmen in this way lost their money, while all others hacked free. The council hesitated as to which horn of the legal dilemma they should take hold of, whether to let the 23 sue for refund and defend that the ordinance was legal and payment proper, or whether to go on a hunt for the others who did not pay and run up against a defense that the old ordinance was illegal. The conclusion of a lengthy discussion was a resolution of Councilman Keith which was adopted:

"Resolved: That the Borough Attorney be instructed to institute proper proceedings for the collection of back licenses for the year 1912, now remaining unpaid."

On complaint a pavement notice was ordered to be sent to owner of property on corner of Water and North Washington streets.

Upon petition of citizens of Springs avenue and West Middle streets the ordinance committee was instructed to present an ordinance opening an alley from West street, between Springs avenue and West Middle streets to the borough limits.

The request of Truman Beard for sewer connection at Fourth street, where he intends to build soon was referred to Sewer Committee to investigate. Sewers on York and Hanover streets were too high for his property.

Marriages of a Week.

New Congressman Dined.

The present Democratic members of the House from Pennsylvania entertained at dinner at the New Willard, Washington, on last Tuesday night the new Democratic members from Pennsylvania elected to the next Congress, who will take their seats when special tariff session assemblies late in March or early in April.

The hosts were Representatives Rothelmer, who presided; Palmer, Donohue, Diefenderfer, Lee, Wilson and Gregg, and the guests were Representatives-elect J. Washington Logue, of Philadelphia; J. J. Casey, of Wilkes-Barre; John W. Leshor, of Sunbury; W. W. Bailey, of Johnstown; and A. R. Brodbeck, of Hanover. Two of the members-elect, F. L. Dersham, of Lewisburg, and Wooda N. Carr, of Uniontown, were unable to be present. The dinner was a very pleasant affair, and was arranged for the purpose of allowing members of the delegation in the next Congress to get acquainted with one another and talk over matters of common interest to the Democracy of the State.

No action of a political character was taken. There was general discussion of the committee assignments that ought to go to the State in the next Congress, but nothing of a definite character was agreed on. Matters of patronage under the Wilson Administration also came in for some attention, and intended only to bring about a general understanding among the members of the delegation, with a view to good team work in the future.—Phila. Record.

Broke Three Ribs. Mrs. Edward Criswell fell down stairs at her home in York Springs on Tuesday evening of last week and broke three of her ribs besides other minor injuries. Mrs. Criswell was coming down stairs carrying a lighted lamp in her hand about 10 o'clock when she tripped in some manner and fell to the landing below. No doubt a tragedy was averted when the lamp went out in her rapid descent as she was alone in the house at the time. A couple of people passing by heard her calling for help and securing her son, N. R. Criswell, who resides just across the street, went in the house and found her in great distress. Dr. E. W. Cashman was summoned and found that Mrs. Criswell had three broken ribs besides some minor injuries.

Leg Amputated. Ephraim Sell, of Kentland, Indiana, brother of Emanuel Sell of Midway, this county, had been suffering from gangrene of the left foot for some time. It was found necessary to amputate the leg six inches above the knee a few days ago. Mr. Sell formerly resided in Union township, this county, and is known by many persons of this county who will regret to learn of his misfortune.

East Berlin—York Trolley. An electric line between East Berlin and York is being promoted by East Berlin capitalists and others of York and Adams counties, and at a special meeting of the East Berlin council last week a franchise was granted, permitting the company to operate on the Borough streets. It is understood that no trouble will be experienced in entering York, and active plans are under way to materialize the project.

A survey will be made as soon as the weather will permit, and after that plans will be drawn and work started on the new road. For several years the proposed line has been agitated, and efforts were made to have the York Railways company build a branch line, from Weiglesstown on the Dover line, to East Berlin. The Railways company had an option to build a line, but this expired over a month ago, and then the East Berlin capitalists decided to go ahead for themselves. The York Railways company declined to build the branch, giving as reasons that it would hardly be a profitable undertaking owing to the sparseness of inhabitants in Adams county and that section of York county. Now East Berlin people intend to operate an independent line between East Berlin and York. A meeting of those interested in the project will be held in East Berlin early next week.

Parent-Teachers Association

The regular February Parent-Teachers' Association meeting will be held on Friday evening at the High School building. What school will capture the Home and School banner for best attendance of parents and scholars? Prof. H. Milton Roth is arranging to have two speakers from a distance address the association. The speakers will be from among the number who speak before the School Directors' Convention this week. The speakers last year gave the association a rich treat and every one interested in child-welfare can look forward to an inspiration meeting on Friday.

Feb. 17 is the anniversary of the founding of the first National Congress of Mothers in Washington, D. C. in 1897 and the day will be extensively observed.

At a Child-Welfare Conference in Harrisburg last week a number of subjects were discussed in which these associations are interested. The campaign inaugurated for the year and to which the attention of Governors and Legislatures is being called are the following: Care of wayward children, the appointment of a Child-Welfare Commission, the embodiment of the kindergarten system in the State educational work, the endorsement of the Child Labor bill, the Mothers' Pension bill and the Juvenile Court Probation bill, and that the State assume permanent custodial care of the feeble-minded.

Congressional Apportionment.

Tinkering at the Congressional apportionment has begun at Harrisburg and what will be the outcome no man can tell. Whether Democracy will be able to get any better deal from Republicans and Progressives than usually given by the former or whether there will be the same old gerrymandering time alone can tell.

York and Adams when made a congressional district were a little short of the necessary population. By the census of 1910 the required population for a congressional district is raised to 212,919 population. The combined population of York and Adams by the 1910 census is 170,724 making a shortage of 42,195. Of the two adjoining counties, Franklin has a population of 59,775 and Cumberland 54,479.

According to a congressional apportionment bill outlined it is proposed to add Franklin to the district to make up the necessary population. It is said that an apportionment will likely be adopted. That the State was not reapportioned before is the reason for four congressmen-at-large in the State. Under the new census, if the reapportionment is made, there will be no congressman-at-large next election.

The apportionment for legislative districts has been prepared and the unit for one member, according to the census of 1910, has been found to be 28,325. Of course, each county is given one member whether it has the population of 38,325 or not. In order to secure two members a county must have over one and a half times, or 57,489 of a population.

Church Notice.

"Story of Reformation."

Over one hundred of the best local talent will assist in the production of "The Story of the Reformation" to be given in Brua Chapel. Thursday and Friday evenings, Feb. 20-21. There will be five scenes given by local talent in song, dialogue, dramatic scenes, triumphal processions and beautiful tableaux, while Miss S. Ethel Brown, of Washington, D. C. will connect the whole by an illustrated lecture. The views shown are beautiful. Those taking part will represent puns and novices, peasants, choirmen, lords and knights. They will all be costumed in the garb of the time in which the scenes shown, transpired. The first rehearsal was held last night and was very satisfactory to Miss Edna M. Shaefer who is here preparing the work.

Customs of the Gettysburg Light Company, and others, contemplating additional or decorative lighting, during the summer season or 50th anniversary period, should confer with the Management and the necessary arrangement be made at once. A limited amount of additional special lighting will be taken if arranged for in the near future.

LUTHERAN MERGER

Was Theme of Important Meeting at Philadelphia.

That all the Lutheran churches in this country join in one great community and that the churches of the General Council and the General Synod unite under one name, was the spirit of the meeting of Lutheran ministers held last week in the Church of the Holy Communion, Philadelphia. The preachers present represented the joint conference of the Pastoral Association of the General Council Churches and the Ministerial Union of the General Synod Churches of Philadelphia.

The project to merge the two camps of Lutherans is the result of the efforts of the most prominent of their respective preachers, and will, it is said, be consummated in honor of the three hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the publication of the Augsburg Confession. The meeting was presided over by Rev. N. R. Melhorn and continued during an entire day, with an intermission for dinner at the Rittenhouse Hotel.

The morning session opened with addresses by Mr. Melhorn, president of the Pastoral Association, and Rev. F. L. Herme, president of the Ministerial Union, who strongly advocated closer co-operation between the two branches of the Lutheran churches in Philadelphia, as a means of ultimately uniting in one Church body. Both endeavored to show that there is no advantage, but every disadvantage in two churches having the same name and the same creed, working independently. A number of ministers of both divisions spoke to deplore the differences which had made a split in the Lutheran Church in 1866 and resulted in the breaking away of one element from the General Synod to found the General Council. They insisted that party strife and differences be buried and that all the followers of Luther join hands under the government of one.

Rev. J. A. Singmaster, president of the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Gettysburg, which is under control of the General Synod, was most enthusiastic in his appeal for union.

"The churches of the General Council and the General Synod are so closely united," he said, "in history, heritage, ancestry and labor that it is a folly and a shame for them to keep up their contentions and their dissensions. The situation in America today demands that Lutherans stand together. The Lutheran Church has ever stood most staunchly against negative criticism and attacks upon the Bible, and if it hopes to wage a successful battle against the new-fangled doctrines and atheistic socialism which are creeping into the Protestant religion it must present a solid front."

"With a common catechism we should forget minor differences of opinion and come together as children of the same community."

Rev. H. E. Jacobs of the Mount Airy Theological Seminary also advocated the union of the two parties in the Church—which, he said, separately had done much good, but could work more effectually together.

Overland

OVER fifteen thousand Overlands have been delivered during the last five months. This is an increase of 300 per cent. over the same period last year. And last year we led every thousand dollar automobile producer in America.

This is more cars than all the automobile factories in Germany turn out in a whole year. Our 1913 sales are more than DOUBLE those of any other manufacturer producing a similar car.

Our 1913 literature describes, explains and illustrates what we are---what we have and what we can do. It's all free. Please write.

HAPPY THO' MARRIED?

There are unhappy married lives, but a large percentage of these unhappy homes are due to the illness of the wife, mother or daughter. The feelings of nervousness, the befogged mind, the ill-temper, the pale and wrinkled face, hollow and circled eyes, result most often from those disorders peculiar to women. For the woman to be happy and good-looking she must naturally have good health. Dragging-down feelings, hysteria, hot-flashes or constantly returning pains and aches—are too great a drain upon a woman's vitality and strength. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription restores weak and sick women to sound health by regulating and correcting the local disorders which are generally responsible for the above distressing symptoms.

Mrs. Dickover.

"I suffered greatly for a number of years and for the past three years was so bad that life was a misery to me," writes Mrs. E. F. Dickover, of Ulica, Ohio, Route 4. "The doctors told me I would have to go to a hospital before I would ever be better. A year ago this winter and spring I was worse than ever before. At each period I suffered like one in torment. I am the mother of six children. I was so bad for five months that I knew something must be done, so I wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce, telling him as nearly as I could how I suffered. He outlined a course of treatment which I followed to the letter. I took two bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and a fifty-cent bottle of 'Smart-Weed,' and have never suffered much since. I wish I could tell every suffering woman the world over what a boon Dr. Pierce's medicines are. There is no use wasting time and money doctoring with anything else or any one else."

The Medical Adviser by R. V. Pierce, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y., answers hosts of delicate questions about which every woman, single or married ought to know. Sent free on receipt of 31 stamps to pay for wrapping and mailing only.

How Mark Twain Introduced Himself.
"Ladies and Gentlemen—By the request of the chairman of the committee I beg leave to introduce to you the reader of the evening, a gentleman whose great learning, whose historical accuracy, whose devotion to science and whose veneration for the truth are only equalled by his moral character and his unselfish presence. I allude, in these vague and general terms, to myself. I am a little opposed to the custom of ceremoniously introducing a reader to the audience, because it seems unnecessary where the man has been properly advertised. But, as it is the custom, I prefer to make it myself—in my own case—and then I can rely on getting in all the facts! I never had but one introduction that seemed to me just the thing, and the gentleman was not acquainted with me, and there was no nonsense. He said: 'Ladies and Gentlemen—I shall waste no time in this introduction. I know of only two facts about this man—first, he never has been in state prison, and, second, I can't imagine why!'"

The Brigand Chief.

Not many years ago the highways of Mexico and especially that of Guadalajara, were infested with brigands, who usually stopped all travelers whom they met. Whenever a conveyance entered the capital with the curtains removed it was taken for granted that the victim of the brigands had taken them to use as a substitute for his own garments of which he had been deprived. The situation at length became unbearable, and a daring robbery having been committed, the authorities sent out troops to pursue the malefactors. The leader of the gang was captured, bound, placed on a mule and escorted to the city. The president sent for the chief of police. He was not forthcoming.

"Does any one know where he is to be found?" asked the president.
"Why, yes, sir," the men replied in chorus; "he is on the mule!"

Goldsmith's Showy Clothes.

Goldsmith was ludicrously fond of showy clothes. When he sought to take orders in Ireland he tried to dazzle his bishop by a pair of scarlet breeches. While studying medicine in Edinburgh he wore "rich sky blue satin," "fine sky blue shalloon" and silver hat lace. Before Johnson, Reynolds and Garrick he strutted about bragging of his bloom colored coat, and when his reputation had been made by his two principal poems he blazed forth in purple silk small clothes, a scarlet greatcoat and a physician's wig. He carried a gold headed cane, and a sword hung by his side, a weapon so disproportioned to his diminutive stature that a coscomb who passed him in the Strand called out to his companion to "look at that dy with a long pin stuck through it."

An Omitted Story.

The reminiscences of the late Melton Prior, the English artist war correspondent, do not contain, for obvious reasons, perhaps the best story told of that irrepressible little man. At a dinner given to Mr. Prior the chairman, Sir Evelyn Wood, who was seated next to the guest of the evening, commenced his speech thusly: "Our honored guest, Mr. Prior, has been in twenty-one engagements." Prior, prompting: "Twenty-two, my lord, twenty-two." Sir Evelyn continued: "In twenty-two engagements and has never seen a shot fired!"

The Lava Lake of Hawaii.

One of the large volcanoes in Hawaii has a large lake of liquid lava in its crater or hollow. This seething, boiling mass looks like red-hot bottle glass to the naked eye, but under the microscope pieces of the original rocks of very minute size may be detected. Where it has cooled in curious festoons along the "coast" it resembles slag from some mammoth furnace.

Abraham Lincoln Not Ungainly

As the years go by any anecdote concerning Abraham Lincoln becomes of interest. The venerable Dr. Silas Hubbard, of Buffalo, is one of the few living men who knew and listened to Abraham Lincoln while still a lawyer, and not in politics. He says:

"I went to the court house at Bloomington, Illinois, in 1856, to hear Abraham Lincoln defend his clients, Doctors Carothers and Rogers, against a suit claiming damages for malpractice. 'The plaintiff, a Mr. Fleming, had been injured at a fire; both legs were broken and set by the defendants. Fleming claimed that the injured limbs were improperly set and treated, so as to cause a permanent deformity, refused to pay the bill, and sued them for damages. Mr. Lincoln, and Stuart, his partner, wished to postpone the trial until the cure was perfected or the damage, if any, had developed itself. I was about to settle at Bloomington, with Dr. Freeze, who was one of Lincoln's witnesses, and I made affidavit giving my opinion as a surgeon that the patient ought to be further recovered before a suit for damages could be fairly adjudicated. 'There are many who talk of Lincoln's homely face and awkward and ungainly manner, but I failed to notice anything of the sort as he tried the case, and I admired his manner of speaking and his clear and logical arguments to the jury. I did not think then that he would ever become President of the United States, but I did realize that he was a very smart and talented man, and that those doctors had secured in Mr. Lincoln and his partner, Mr. Stuart, the best legal talent in the state of Illinois. Mr. Lincoln was humorous and often witty in his cross-examination of the defendants, and in the end won the case for them.'—'Affairs at Washington,' by Joe Mitchell Chapple, in NATIONAL Magazine for February.

THE U. S. CONSTITUTION

16TH AMENDMENT RATIFIED BY THREE FOURTHS OF STATES

Last Amendment in 1869—A Tax on Incomes Made Lawful—Congress Will Enact the Law.

The sixteenth amendment to the constitution, relating to the tax on incomes, is the first since 1869, when the amendment prohibiting restriction of suffrage on account of "race, color or previous condition of servitude" was adopted. The sixteenth amendment is unique in that it is the only one which restores to the government a right previously held or exercised, but taken away by judicial interpretations.

It was in 1895 that the supreme court, by a vote of 5 to 4, decided that Congress had no right under the constitution as then worded to levy taxes on incomes. The agitation in favor of an income tax amendment to the constitution began immediately following the amendment of that decision.

The sixteenth amendment is unique in another particular. It has taken almost four years to ratify it. This has been true of no other amendment, excepting the eleventh, and the sixteenth has the lead over it so far as time is concerned. The first 10 amendments to the constitution were adopted in 1789, very early in the history of the government, and were made to correct oversights of the constitutional convention. They were submitted in block and ratified in less than two years. The eleventh amendment, submitted by Congress in 1794, was declared adopted early in 1798. The twelfth amendment, submitted in 1803, was declared adopted in 1804. The thirteenth amendment, submitted in 1865, was ratified during the same year. The fourteenth amendment was submitted in 1868 and declared ratified in 1868. The fifteenth amendment, submitted in 1869, was declared ratified in 1870.

The ratification of the income tax amendment is declared by conservative men in both the older political parties to prove that constitutional amendment is not the difficult, not to say impossible thing that some of the more radical politicians have said it was. It is noteworthy that, with the exception of the early amendments, no others have been possible until now, save those which came as the result of the civil war. This fact has been urged in favor of a constitutional convention by public men of radical temperament, who have claimed that the slow process of former years have grown slower still, until it is quite out of the question to amend the constitution, even on points conceded in the interest of all the people. The income tax amendment and the likelihood of the submission of an amendment changing the term of the chief executive, are the reply of the conservatives to the radical on this point.

The income tax law declared unconstitutional by the supreme court in 1895 originally provided for a tax on all incomes in excess of $5000 a year, but this amount was reduced to $4000 before the bill was sent to the White House for approval, owing to the feeling on the part of the public that the members of the two houses, then receiving $5000 a year for their services, were undertaking to shield themselves from the operations of the proposed law. The pay of the federal lawmakers is now $7500 a year, which means that $2500 of that sum, in the case of every member, will be taxed annually, just as soon as Congress can make the income tax effective through legislation, provided the new law fixes the exemption at $5000, as it is believed it will do.

The ways and means committee, on which will fall the duty of drafting and introducing the income tax bill, will proceed with deliberation. First of all, it will see the new tariff law through Congress. After that, the committee will receive the estimates of customs experts as to the amount annually the new tariff will put into the treasury. With this information at hand, the committee will be in position to determine the rate to be levied on incomes, as well as the individual incomes that will be exempt. Tentatively, however, on the information already at hand, the committee believes that the rate of taxation will be 1 per cent., and that incomes below $5000 will be exempted. The estimate of $100,000,000 a year to be raised from incomes still holds good, for it is believed that it will be necessary to raise that sum to take the place of customs losses consequent on the going into effect of the new tariff.

There are reasons for believing that Congress, in the enactment of the income tax law, will confine itself within rational limitations, although there is nothing compelling it to do so. The new amendment to the constitution is so sweeping in the authority that it confers upon Congress in this respect, that the greatest of the constitutional lawyers have been compelled to admit that Congress may go anywhere it likes for the funds to be derived from the new law and make the rate of taxation any figure it may deem appropriate. It is believed, however, that Congress may be trusted to live up to the traditions and judicial rulings of the past, under which the federal government has been prevented from taxing the salaries of state officials or the income derived from state, county and municipal bonds.

The grounds on which taxes from these sources is opposed is that such taxation would be an obnoxious interference with the instrumentalities of the several states. Congress may, if it should see fit, exempt from the operation of the new law the salaries of all state officers and the incomes derived from state and other local securities, and the chances are that it will do so, although it should not be forgotten that on another occasion, when it was enacting an income tax law—in 1849—it attempted to lay a tax on state, county and municipal bonds.

There are two reasons for believing that Congress will not repeat the act of 1849: In the first place, it now has the undisputed right to lay the tax where it chooses, which will be depended upon to make it liberal; and, should have rich, red blood and sturdy, healthy bodies to withstand cold rains, changing seasons and winter storms.

If your child is weary when rising—lacks energy and ambition—has no appetite or possibly sallow skin or a pinched face—it is for want of vital body-nourishment; this growing period demands special, concentrated, easily digested food for body-development—mental strain—physical changes.

Scott's Emulsion is the greatest body-builder known—it is nature's wholesome strength-maker—without alcohol or stimulant—makes rosy cheeks, active blood, sturdy frames and sound bodies.

But you must have SCOTT'S.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Bloomfield, N. J. 12-52

in the second place, in addition to being wiser than it was in 1894, it is again under the control of the Democratic party, whose high regard for the doctrine of states rights will be expected to direct a conservative course of action. The point that the states should be permitted to operate their instrumentalities without the handicap of a federal tax, is now being made with a good deal of emphasis. This is one of the features of the new law that will be watched with great interest in all parts of the country. Failure to tax state and local securities will probably have the effect of giving those securities a greater selling value than they have at present.

There also will be strong opposition in Congress to any proposition to have the new law impose a tax on individual income derived from investments in corporations which already pay an income tax under the excise tax law. There are many members of the two houses who believe that the corporations-excise tax is essentially an income tax, and that Congress should so declare, now that the income tax amendment to the constitution has been adopted. It would be wrong in principle, say many good lawyers, to compel a corporation to pay a tax on its profits and then to collect another tax on the reduced dividend of the stockholder.

Ballots for Women Winning.

The Woman Suffrage Bill has been introduced into both branches of our State Legislature. Hon F. H. Rockwell of Wellsboro, Tioga County presented the measure in the House on Jan. 27th and it was referred to the Judiciary General Committee. After a brief sojourn of only two days, it was reported out of the Committee favorably by a unanimous vote. This progress indicates the Bill will be passed by the House without delay and with a big majority. In the Senate, Hon. A. W. Powell of Allegheny County, who by the way is the new Auditor General elect, introduced the Bill on Jan. 25th and it was reported to the Judiciary General Committee of the Senate. Suffragists throughout the State are now urging the members of the Legislature from their particular districts to vote in favor of the Bill and of our suffrage readers who have not already done so, should communicate at once with their senators and representatives. The names and addresses of the members from this County can be secured most quickly by writing to the State Suffrage Headquarters, 201 Arcade Building, Harrisburg.

Votes for Women had four big State victories during the past week, 1 New York, the equal suffrage bill passed both houses of the Legislature by the overwhelming majorities of 123 to 7 in the House and 46 to 1 in the Senate. As in Pennsylvania so in New York, the bill must be passed again by the Legislature and can then be submitted to the people in Nov. 1915. The equal suffrage bill passed both Houses of the Legislature in Montana and South Dakota. As the Constitutions of these two States do not require that an amendment be agreed to by two Legislatures, the question will be submitted to the voters in November, 1914. In Nevada, the equal suffrage bill has passed one Legislature and last week was passed by the General Assembly for the second time. If passed by the Senate it will come before the people in November 1914 or at a special election in October 1915.

We heard a man say the other morning that the abbreviation for February—Feb.—means Freeze everybody, and that man looked frozen in his utter. It was apparent that he needed the kind of warmth that stays, the warmth that reaches from head to foot, all over the body. We could have told him from personal knowledge that Hood's Sarsaparilla gives permanent warmth, it invigorates the blood and speeds it along through artery and vein, and really fits men and women, boys and girls, to enjoy cold weather and resist the attacks of disease. It gives the right kind of warmth, stimulates and strengthens at the same time, and all its benefits are lasting. There may be a suggestion in this for you.

LINCOLN ANNIVERSARY

GEN. SHERWOOD TELLS OF A CHERISHED LINCOLN MEMORY

In Speech In Congress in Which the Road to Gettysburg was Advocated.

General Isaac R. Sherwood of Ohio, made an address worth the reading and preservation in favor of the Lincoln Way and in view of the fact that this issue of the Compiler is on the birthday anniversary of Lincoln, there will be found in it much thought pertinent to the day. It is as follows:

Mr. Speaker, I am for the Lincoln highway—72 miles—from Washington to Gettysburg.

Only once did I ever meet Abraham Lincoln. That was on the 4th of March, 1865, when I was clothed in the grim harness of war, with my once blue uniform tarnished with grime from the red-clay roads of northern Georgia. In November, 1864, I voted as an Ohio soldier for Abraham Lincoln for President while on the march in western Tennessee—voted in an old camp kettle, and we counted the votes at night by the light of the bivouac fires. I want to vote for a permanent and fitting and generous testimonial to Abraham Lincoln now, but not for a $2,000,000 Greek temple, to commemorate the greatest American of his epoch, who never even learned the Greek alphabet. [Applause.]

We have hundreds of monuments dedicated to Abraham Lincoln now. We have four in this National Capitol. Under the great central dome stands, in white marble, Minnie Ream's famous statue of Abraham Lincoln in the plain clothes of an American citizen. Only a few feet to the left is another statue—head and bust—also in marble, double heroic size. In Judiciary Square, on a raised pedestal, is a full-length statue of Lincoln, also in marble. In Lincoln Park stands the historic bronze statue of Lincoln unshackling the slave. So far as I know, none of the patriotic people of the United States are demanding more multiplication of Lincoln statues in this city. The city is now full of statues and monuments that are silent and cold and stand for nothing but Grecian art and sculpture and remind us only of nations and civilizations that are dead.

I will vote for a monument or statue, with ideas in it—a statue fittingly typifying Abraham Lincoln's mission and career. But there is nothing in this Greek temple, however artistic, however ornate, however impressive, that even suggests to the critical observer either the character, or career, or mission of Abraham Lincoln. Lincoln was never a student of Greek art or Greek sculpture. A Greek temple would be an appropriate testimonial to a learned linguist of a national university who had worn out his life in teaching the literature of a dead language, or of a Pagan civilization long since dead, but never for a great citizen of this Republic, who never saw the inside of a university in his school days and who learned to read books at night by the light of a pine-knot fire. Born in a cabin, he breathed the untainted air of the woods and fields. Born poor, but rich in soul and brain and hope and courage. Can we satisfy the patriotic longings of the American people to fittingly commemorate the memory of Lincoln by erecting a $2,000,000 Grecian temple in the National Capitol? I do not believe it. We concede that no more is to be said of Abraham Lincoln than has already been written. History has said its last word. We all know that he was, of all public men of his time, the simplest in manners, the most all-pervading in human sympathy, the most constant in his devotion to his ideals. North or South, he has no critics to-day. I met him only once. But I stood within 10 feet of Abraham Lincoln on the 4th of March, 1865, and heard him deliver his inaugural—his last oration on earth. I heard him say:

"Fondly do we hope, fervently do we pray, that this mighty scourge of war may speedily pass away. With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right, let us strive to finish the work we are in, to bind up the Nation's wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow and his orphan." [Applause.]

We have made 48 years of history since that eventful day, but I can see Lincoln now as I saw him then, a tall, gaunt, stalwart man, with deep lines of care furrowing his cheeks, with inexpressible sadness in his face, a face that told the story of a man of many sorrows. A sad face, a strong face, a face radiant with the inspiration of a great soul, as he voiced in prophecy the ultimate destiny of this Nation. As a soldier of the Republic I heard Abraham Lincoln voice his national ideals in his last oration to the American people, and to-day as a citizen of a restored Republic I intend to vote for my conscientious conception of those ideals. It is time we had some American art and American sculpture and American ideals in this National Capitol. The brave and prescient patriots of the Revolutionary epoch who founded this Capitol and started the young Republic on its career never intended to make this city the home of wealth and monumental splendor, like Athens or Rome. It was intentionally located in the wilderness, that the representatives of the people should be free from the venal influences, the demoralizing environment of a dominating social set of money-fiddlers. [Applause.] This is the only great Capitol around the world originally planned in native forest. All the great capitals of the Old World had long commercial lives before being crowned as capitals. It was only 45 days after the last act of ratification of the Federal Constitution that the first-born Congress of the thirteen States decreed the wilderness on the eastern shore of the Potomac as the future Capital of the Republic.

Take the Washington Monument, conceived and planned and originally built to the height of 152 feet by the contributions of patriotic citizens and societies. And how does that immense pile of white marble compare with Mount Vernon as a national shrine. Not at all. There is no sentiment, no patriotic inspiration in the cold conceits of sculptured marble. The hundreds of thousands of visitors and excursionists to this National Capitol take a far-away look at this cold marble pile and then go on to Mount Vernon. And in the environment of the home of George Washington, in the association of George Washington with his historic mansion, and in the presence of his tomb Mount Vernon and not the Washington Monument has become our national shrine. And it will so remain long after the Washington Monument has crumbled into dust.

The most heroic incident in the life of Abraham Lincoln was his oration on the battle field of Gettysburg. It is conceded to be the leading classic in the heroic literature of the war period. The most valued and heroic incident in the life of Abraham Lincoln was his oration on this great battle field. Here was fought the most desperate, the most signal, and the most decisive battle of the entire four years' war. Next July the last sad remnants of two armies—the blue and the gray—will meet in reunion on the battle field of Gettysburg—a continent-wide patriotic reunion to proclaim to all the world that this Nation is now one and inseparable. Let the Congress of the United States embrace this occasion to make that battle field a sacred national shrine. Let us build from this now overgrown Capitol a national highway, to be known for all time as the Lincoln Highway to Gettysburg. And on the spot where Lincoln stood when he delivered his memorial oration on that ever memorable 4th of July let us erect a marble tablet, with every shining sentence of that immortal classic cut into solid marble. [Applause.] Let us have a memorial to Abraham Lincoln with ideals in it—ideas of patriotic inspiration. Monuments have no sympathy, no emotion, no voice. Let us have tokens and symbols that are prescient with inspiration for the future of our country. The great present, with its growing zeal for humanity, with a culture deepened and broadened by science and enriched by all history, with its strong winged soul of prophecy, hot with the blood beats of a realized brotherhood claims us, calls us, and holds us. Let us not stagger back into pagan darkness to study art and sculpture from nations and civilizations long since dead that knew neither chastity nor charity nor Christ. Give us something with life in it—American ideas vibrant with the full-throated voice of patriotic inspiration. Let us make a national shrine of Gettysburg and build a broad highway to this Capitol and hallow it for all time with the revered name of Lincoln. [Continued applause.]

The Truth About Germs.

"After all, how much is there in all this talk about germs? Is not the street child healthier than the child who is taught to be cleanly?"

Every now and then questions like this are asked. Visit the slums if you want the most convincing answers. Find out how many babies die before they reach five years of age. See how few rosy cheeks there are. Ask sanitarians and hospitals where most of their sickness originates? They will tell you from the streets.

But the question is asked, "How about the farmer's children? They play in the dirt all day long. Are they not healthy?"

They may be well, but the earth they play in is not teeming with germs as is street dust. They have sunshine and fresh air unsullied by the germs of the city. They are not crowded by side their neighbors. The country boy is well and healthy not because his hands and face may be dirty, but in spite of this fact. Were he exposed to as many germs as the city boy, he would be just as sickly. Furthermore, if it is healthy to be careless about germs why are there so many typhoid fever epidemics in the country? Why is there so much tuberculosis?

As a matter of fact disease germs are very real things. They are living organisms. They are parasites which prey upon your vitality and change health to sickness. Be careful to avoid germs. It pays.—Karl de Schweinitz, Executive Secretary, Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis.

The Minstrel Band.

Did you hear the John W. Vogel's minstrel band as it filled the town with its merry, hurried music on Christmas Day? Did you notice the men in the procession, wearing high hats, long light colored coats, buttoned with precision around figures which seemed animated with music and wires, or something of that sort? Did you see the banners and the zouaves carrying them? How the horns sounded, and how the tunes echoed through the streets.

Many a grizzled man saw the parade pass and turned from the window with a wish for just one Christmas Day he could be like the boy who followed the minstrel band, admiring in his excited mind the wonderful heroes in the long light coats, which are only fantastic departures from the minstrel show of the past. Eugene Field could back to the boy again when he wrote: "Bring the comb and play upon it, Marching here we come—Willie cocks his Highland bonnet, Johnny beats the drum."

Is it, after all, only the boy who loves the minstrel band? Whoever reasons thus but tries to hide beneath that cynicism which deceives no one, not even the cynic himself, his own heart. Who ever passes on without noticing the high hats, the flowing banners, the dandy coats and of ter incongruous features of the minstrel parade, is only trying with an effort which twitches his heart, to close the gates of memory's playground.

Hurrah for the minstrel band! — News Press, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

BARLOW

The Barlow Rural Telephone Company met in Willow Grove school house, Cumberland township, Jan. 2, 1913, and held their annual election resulting as follows, as officers and directors: President, J. Kerr Lott; Vice President, W. G. Durborow; Secretary, John W. Black; Treasurer John F. Sharetts, S. S. Schriver, F. S. Cromer and John Schwartz.

A number of relatives and friends assembled at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Maring in Cumberland township on Feb. 1, 1913, in honor of Mr. Maring's youngest sister, Miss Emma who was recently married. After a pleasant social time all were invited to the table which fairly groined under its burden. The menu was an excellent one consisting of oysters in all styles, fruits, oranges, ice cream, cakes of different kinds and coffee. Clarence Fair did not enjoy himself after eating so much for supper. Those present were: J. W. Maring and wife and their two sons, Harry Wolf and wife, Jonas Maring, Miss Bruce Maring, Clarence Fair, H. S. Heagey of Clementson, Mion, and your correspondent and wife.

On Saturday last Charles Schwartz of Mt. Joy township while hauling wood home to the wood pile and when he was on the wagon straightening the wood slipped and fell breaking his left leg between the ankle and knee. Dr. Hartman of Gettysburg was hastily summoned and upon examination found the left leg broken. At last accounts the patient is doing well.

Sunday last was ground hog day. In the morning the critter came out and took a view at his shadow. Then he went back to his den with a smiling face to keep silent six more weeks. Well we will be perfectly satisfied if he lets up when the six weeks have passed. J. F. S.

Regulations for Lent of 1913.

1. All the faithful who have completed their twenty-first year are bound to observe the fast of Lent, unless dispensed for legitimate reasons.

2. The persons exempted from fasting are: the infirm, those under twenty-one years of age, women in pregnancy or nursing infants, those who are engaged in laborious occupations and those who are enfeebled by old age.

3. Only one full meal a day is allowed for those who are bound to fast, except on Sundays.

4. On the days on which permission is granted to eat meat, both meat and fish are not to be used at the same meal by any one.

5. A collation or partial meal is allowed in the evening. It should never exceed eight ounces.

By virtue of an Indult of the Holy See, dated August 3, 1887, the following special dispensations are granted:

6. Bread, butter, cheese, fruit of all kinds, salads, vegetables, fish, milk and eggs are permitted at the collation.

7. It is lawful to drink in the morning some warm liquid, such as tea, coffee or chocolate, and to partake of a small portion of bread, not exceeding two ounces.

8. The use of lard instead of butter is allowed in preparing fish, vegetable, etc.

9. The use of flesh meat is permitted at any time on Sundays, and once a day on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, with the exception of Ember Saturday and Holy Saturday.

10. On the above-named days when meat is allowed, its use is not restricted to one meal in the cases of persons exempt from fasting by age or laborious occupation.

11. When the principal meal cannot be conveniently taken at midday, it is permitted to change the order, taking the collation then and the dinner in the evening.

12. By virtue of powers granted by the Holy See, workmen and their families are permitted the use of flesh meat once a day on all the fast days and abstinence days throughout the year, with the exception of all Fridays, Ash Wednesday, the Wednesday and Saturday of Holy Week and the eve of Christmas. Those who avail themselves of this dispensation are not allowed to eat fish and flesh at the same meal, and they are exhorted to perform some voluntary act of mortification.

DEATH LIST OF THE WEEK

INVALID WITH UNUSUAL DIS-EASE BURNED TO DEATH

Edward Benchoff in Lighting His Pipe Set Fire to His Clothing and Received Fatal Burns.

EDWARD BENCHOFF, son of David C. Benchoff, of Highfield, and grandson of the late Col. Wm. Benchoff who lived in Adams county, near Charman, was fatally burned on Friday afternoon at his home. Mr. Benchoff had been an invalid from an unusual disease known as "increased ossification." His legs were rigid, bent at the knees and immovable. He was confined to his room for the past dozen years. Friday afternoon he was lighting his pipe when the head of the lighted match fell on his right leg. His woolen gown was quickly in a blaze and he made a frantic effort to extinguish the flames. He called out in his agony and his mother and sister ran to his room. He was all aflame then but they grabbed quilts and blankets and wrapped them about him in the effort to put out the blaze and save his life. Dr. Charles Beck, Highfield, and Dr. S. B. Thomas of Waynesboro, were summoned and did all that was possible, but the man was too horribly burned. He died at 12 o'clock midnight of Friday. His right leg was burned to a crisp and his body and face were eaten into by the flames. When Mrs. Benchoff, who was in the kitchen, heard her son's screams for help, she started to run upstairs. Before she reached there, she was overcome and fell to the floor. With remarkable will power she got to her feet and made her way to her son's room. There she was overcome again but regained her feet and called to her daughter, Grace, to come to her assistance. The latter brought water and threw it over the blazing man. Then they wrapped blankets about him and extinguished the flames but not until he had been fatally burned. Every part of his body was burned by the flames. His beard and mustache were burned off and almost all the hair on his head. He was not recognizable to those who did not know him well. He was conscious to end and did not utter a complaint. Mr. Benchoff made a determined effort to save himself. He was dressed in heavy woolen underclothes and a big woolen robe. He tore fiercely at these with his hands, to pull them from his body.

Edward Benchoff was a sufferer for many years from increased ossification, in the course of which his tendons became bones and his muscles tendons. The signs of the trouble began in his feet, with odd twitchings, and then slowly ascended his legs to his torso, leaving the legs very rigid. His legs were bent at the knee and their position was never changed unless some one lifted them around.

For twelve years he was a prisoner in his room. Before that he was able to get around with the aid of two canes. He did a lot of work in the garden, to which he went on his canes until he was unable to use the canes. During all this time Mr. Benchoff had a good appetite and his general health was good. Recently a number of members of the Rouzerville Methodist Episcopal Church began holding prayer meetings in his room.

Another son of D. C. Benchoff has a like affliction. He is Jacob, aged 22 years. The increased ossification is gripping him as it fastened on his brother. He can walk about slowly, with the aid of two canes, but his progress is uncertain and he frequently tumbles to the ground. Fortunately, he was not in his brother's room, but down stairs, when the accident which caused the older man's death occurred. None of the brothers or sisters are afflicted except Jacob.

Edward Benchoff was born near Sahillsville, May 11, 1871, the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Benchoff. For the past seventeen years he had lived with his parents at Highfield, his father being a section hand on the W. M. R. R. He is survived by his parents and these brothers and sisters: C. E. and R. C. Benchoff, Highfield; L. E. Benchoff, Cascade; Arthur W. Benchoff, Baltimore; Jacob Benchoff at home; B. Frank Benchoff, Waynesboro; Mrs. Mattie Buhrman, Baltimore; Mrs. Mary Pryor, Cascade; Miss Grace Benchoff at home; Mrs. John Hoffman, Kouserville. Funeral was held on Saturday, services in Bethel Church, conducted by Rev. M. L. Firor, interment in adjoining graveyard.

MRS. JANE SWARTZ, wife of David Swartz of Mt. Joy township died at her home on last Thursday morning from heart failure and pneumonia. On the Saturday previous Feb. 1, her son Charles M. Swartz broke his leg and word was taken to his home that his father should come over to see his place. The father was absent at the time and the mother was greatly worried and as soon as her husband came rushed out of a warm room to tell him to go to the son's place. She became chilled in going out and pneumonia developed the same evening. She was aged 63 years, 11 months and 11 days. The funeral was held on Sunday, services being conducted by Rev. J. B. Baker, interment in the Evergreen Cemetery. She was the daughter of Levi and Mary Plank and is survived by the following children: Mrs. Alice A. Shansbrook, Mrs. Laura Waybright, Mrs. Cora A. Conover, Mrs. Sara Jane Bender, Charles N. Swartz, Joel D. Swartz and Harvey A. Swartz, of Illinois. Two brothers and sisters survive, Dallas F. Plank of Mt. Joy township and Pierce Plank of Gettysburg. Mrs. John Swartz of Mt. Joy township and Mrs. Sallie Rider of Cumberland township.

Resolutions.

Resolutions of condolence on the death of Peter Culp adopted by Washington Camp No. 414 P. O. S. of A.

Whereas, God in His wisdom has seen fit to remove from our midst our Brother Peter Culp, of Washington Camp No. 414 P. O. S. of A., of Penna., on December 27th, 1912, and

Whereas, In the Death of Brother Culp this Camp has sustained the loss of an honored member and wise counselor; therefore be it

Resolved, That the officers and members of this Camp, express heartfelt sympathy and sorrow over the demise of our Brother, whom we knew as an exemplary American citizen and worthy patriotic Brother.

Resolved, That this Camp tender to the bereaved widow and children our most sincere sympathy over the death of a devoted husband and loving father, and that we pray our Heavenly Father to assuage their grief and point them to the hope of a glorious reunion.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this Camp, and that a copy thereof, be presented to the widow of our deceased Brother.

Fraternally submitted.

WHY HE DOES IT

It isn't often that we have faith enough in the medicines put up by other people to be willing to offer to refund the money if it does not cure, said druggist L. M. Buehler and Peoples Drug Store to one of their many customers, but we are glad to sell Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia on that plan.

"The Dr. Howard Co., in order to get a quick introductory sale authorized us to sell the regular fifty cent bottle of their specific for half price, 25 cents and although we have sold a lot of it, and guaranteed every package, but one has been brought back as unsatisfactory."

We are still selling the specific at half price, although we cannot tell how long we shall be able to do so. Any person who is subject to constipation, sick headache, dizziness, liver trouble, indigestion or a general played out condition, ought to take advantage of this opportunity. If the specific does not cure them, they can come right back to our store, and we will cheerfully refund their money.

YEAR BOOK of Stark Bro's Nurseries & Orchards Co. MAILED TO YOU FREE

Just say on a Postal Card: "Send me a copy of Stark Year Book for 1913." When writing, also tell us how many trees, shrubs, vines, etc., you will probably plant this season.

This Year Book is more than a mere catalogue of Stark nursery products, it is a practical, easy to understand text book for the guidance of the man who plants trees. Our own experience of nearly 100 years, the reports of experiment stations and the opinions of planters from all sections are condensed and reproduced for the benefit of busy people. An encyclopedia of orchard information, containing full size color illustrations of gloriously tinted fruits and many photographic reproductions in black and white; also information on many subjects in which the orchardist is interested.

Hundreds of varieties of apples, pears, peach, plum, cherry, apricot, quince, grape and all small fruits are described; weaknesses of each variety are pointed out and good points are explained. We feel that planters should know both.

Those interested in growing fruits or flowers or shrubs or shade trees will find this book of inestimable value; totally different from the average nurseryman's publications. It is a book you will keep for reference, and one on which you can depend as being absolutely accurate. Write today for your copy.

A DOUBLE CONFESSION

The Singular Case of a Pair of Lovers

By JOHN R. OGELVIE

One of the questions as to what is and what is not allowable in the legal profession that laymen are not apt to understand is whether it is honorable for a lawyer to defend a client who has confessed himself guilty of the crime with which he is charged. One of the reasons why this is not only allowable for an attorney, but is his duty, is that the confession may be false. Many persons have labored under a hallucination that they have committed a crime, of which they are entirely innocent.

I had a very singular case of this kind when I was practicing, before I went on the bench. A young man was accused of forging his uncle's will. He was heir-at-law to the property involved by reason of relationship to the testator. But several years before the will was drawn one was executed leaving the property to a woman who was his housekeeper. It was this housekeeper, Anna Blake, who accused the beneficiary under the second will with having forged his uncle's name to it.

Arnold Jefferson, my client, when I came to confer with him about his case, asked me whether I would defend a person who confessed himself guilty. I said that I would, whereupon he told me that in order to prevent his uncle's property from going out of the family and secure it for himself he had forged his uncle's name to the second will.

I was somewhat staggered at this, for if I proved him innocent I would divert the property from the channel in which the testator intended it to go and deprive the real owner of it that it might go to a criminal. I plied the young man with questions as to how he had come to perpetrate such a crime, and he told me that he was in love with a girl whom he would like to marry and did not consider himself able to do so without this property. Besides, he believed that his uncle was intending to leave it to him at the time of his death.

If I declined to take the case and he could get no other lawyer to do so the judge would assign him counsel. Therefore I proceeded with it though reluctantly, for it is not pleasant for a conscientious lawyer to defend a man who has admitted his guilt. I would content myself with trying to get my client off with as light a sentence as possible.

There was a chance for the young man in this—experts in chirography would be called who would compare the signature to the will with Jefferson's handwriting. These experts are apt to differ in such matters. The plaintiff called the most prominent one of the lot, who declared that my client must have written the signature to the will. I employed another expert, who testified that he could not have written it. But unfortunately of the five experts called four testified that there were certain strokes in the signature that were to be found in Jefferson's writing.

There were two signatures of witnesses to the will Jefferson was charged with forging. One of these persons, Edward Brouson, was dead; the other, Silas Ormsby, was not to be found. They were supposed to be myths, and the plaintiff's attorneys, though they had no proof that the defendant had written their names, threw out a broad hint that he had done so.

The case looked so desperate that I advised my client to produce his confession and throw himself on the mercy of the court. By this means he might secure a light sentence, whereas if he persisted in denying his guilt in the face of such conclusive evidence he would very likely get a heavy one.

He said that he would think the matter over. This was after court adjourned on Saturday, and I feared I could not keep the trial in progress more than a day or two longer. And as the case stood Jefferson was sure to be convicted. Sunday evening I received a call from a young lady, Miss Dora Wentworth, who turned all my expectations awry. She told me that it was she, and not Arnold Jefferson, who had committed the forgery.

I felt it incumbent upon me to subject her to a searching examination to get at the truth. She said that she was the person whom Jefferson was engaged to marry. He had been all a lover should be until about the time his uncle had died and no will was found leaving the property to him. Then she told him that a will would be found if she had to write one herself. This, she added, she had done.

I asked Miss Wentworth if she would sign a written confession to this effect and she said she would. So I asked her to write it. Before she could again see Jefferson I went to the jail and, showing him her confession, asked him why he had made a false one himself. He seemed a good deal agitated at seeing the matter laid down in black and white. Then he burst out passionately:

"I didn't believe when she threatened to do this thing that she would be so desperate. Nevertheless when the second will was found I feared she had written and signed it. Preferring to suffer myself rather than that she should suffer for her crime, I have stood in the breach. And I propose before the court and the world to continue to stand in the breach. I will claim what I have claimed—that I concocted the will, signed my uncle's name to it and put in the names of witnesses who had no existence."

Here was a mixed up affair, and no mistake. A pair of lovers were each claiming to be guilty, and solely innocent, which the guilty one? I had nothing by which to decide. I thought of the experts. Should I submit this new feature of the case to them? What would it avail? A preponderance of their evidence had proved Jefferson guilty. They could not be expected to go back on their former evidence by declaring that Miss Wentworth committed the forgery. I could get other experts who had not yet been brought into the case, but if they declared that Miss Wentworth had done the writing it would only prove expert testimony to be worthless.

Here I paused in my cogitations, for I was struck with an idea. I might produce Miss Wentworth's confession in court. It would probably be regarded a ruse to save her lover. But suppose I could get experts to testify that her handwriting had in it the characteristics of the forged signature. I could at least save my client. The same evening I acted on this thought, and, though I had difficulty in finding even one expert who had not been called in the case, he had as good reputation for skill in his profession as any of the others. To my surprise, he told me there was no doubt that Miss Wentworth was the guilty party.

That settled my course for the future. The next day when the court opened I produced the second confession and the affidavit of the expert in chirography that in his opinion the confessor had forged the signature to the will in question.

There was a great deal of confusion in what followed in court. The legal aspect of the case had entirely changed. Two different persons, had confessed to have written a signature that could only have been written by one. After consultation with their client the plaintiff's lawyers took the ground that the second will was invalid because there was a confession on the part of the beneficiary under it that he had forged it. Therefore, the property going to Anna Blake under the former will, she had no interest in further criminal prosecution. They asked for an adjournment of the court and proposed to me that if my client would sign away all claim to his uncle's property they would drop the prosecution against him and so far as they were concerned would not prosecute Miss Wentworth.

I declined the proposition on the ground that it was impossible to prove either of the lovers guilty. But they, feeling confident that the chancery court would give their client the property under the earlier will, dropped the matter, and Jefferson went forth a free man.

My own solution of the problem involved in the two confessions was that Jefferson, being disappointed in inheriting the property, signified that the marriage could not take place. This threw in the way of Miss Wentworth a temptation that she could not resist. She concocted a later will, but her lover in order to save her from the consequences of her crime when criminal proceedings were commenced confessed himself guilty. Nevertheless I was not certain as to this or anything concerning the parties or the affair in which they were concerned. That either one or the other or both were guilty I did not doubt, but this opinion was rather based on the evidence than on the bearing or appearance of either of them. I could not throw off an impression that Jefferson was a fine fellow and Miss Wentworth was a lovely girl. And had not each attempted to relieve the other of the burden by a confession?

The matter of the inheritance was still in the chancery court when one day I received a letter from a man in Australia. I had that day received an invitation to the wedding of Arnold Jefferson and Dora Wentworth. I put the letter in my pocket and said nothing about it till I attended the wedding, which took place in a little church with no attendants except myself. Indeed, it had not been expected that even I would accept. When the clergyman who performed the ceremony came to the words "With all my worldly goods I thee endow" and the groom had repeated them I called a halt and produced the letter I had received from Australia. It read as follows:

Have seen in an American newspaper reference to the case against Arnold Jefferson. I was an intimate friend of the late William Jefferson and was one of the witnesses to a will he made a few weeks before his death. I return to America soon on business and will call upon you not long after you receive this.

SILAS ORMSBY.

Never shall I forget the look that passed between the bride and groom. Each had believed the other guilty of the forgery, but each had forgiven the other on account of the sacrifice involved in the act. A few rapidly spoken words passed between them, there was a quick embrace, and the ceremony proceeded. But they were both too much affected to make the responses intelligently.

The same day I stopped all proceedings in the chancery court as to the Jefferson will pending the arrival of the Australian. In due time the confessed forger inherited the property, enjoying it with his confessed forger wife.

If before handling this case I had qualms of conscience in defending a criminal who I had every reason to believe to be guilty I certainly never had afterward. Our system of jurisprudence is based on hundreds of years' experience and should be followed unflinchingly.

The old English words "right" and "left" have come into more and more general use, and that, too, with the help of other than English people. For some years the words of command have been changed on the ships of a German transatlantic line. Instead of ordering a change of course by the old terms, "starboard" or "port," as the case might require, the same orders are now given by the shorter word "right" or "left." The change was made in the German navy at an earlier day.

It was not long ago that the English word "harbored" was used where we now use "port." There is no difficulty in seeing that two such words as "starboard" and "harbored" were unfit for their use, as they sounded too nearly alike. They were also too long. There is need of short, sharp words, which are easily distinguished. Often there is no time to correct an error, and a mistake is fatal. "Right" and "left" are short and sharp enough. If they differed more in sound they would serve all the better.—St. Louis Republic.

Up Against the Judge.

He was a Scottish advocate, and in his pleading he had several times pronounced the word "enow" for "enough."

"Mr. —," the judge remarked at length, "in England we sound the 'ough' as 'uff'—enuff, not 'enow.'"

"Verra weel, ma lord," continued the self possessed pleader, "of this we have said enuff, and I come, ma lord, to the subdivision of the land in dispute. It was apportioned, ma lord, into what in England would be called pluffland—a pluffland being as much land as a pluffman can pluff in one day, and pluffman!"

But his lordship could not withstand the ready repartee and burst into a laugh, saying:

"Pray proceed, Mr. —. We know 'enow' of the Scottish language to understand your arguments."—London Tit-Bits.

Geography of Blushing.

"Dogs blush," said a hunter. "Look at Carlo. I'll frighten him, and you'll see him blush plainly. Dogs blush in the tail."

He pretended that he was going to whip his hunting dog, and the animal showed the whites of its eyes in fright, while the skin of its white tail was, sure enough, suffused with blood. The tail blushed vividly.

"Horses," continued the huntsman, "blush in the ears, especially in the left ear. Cows and sheep blush just above the fetlock. Watch that spot on a cow. When she blushes there it's a sign she's nervous. Move the milk pail then, for she is likely to kick it over."

"Cats and mice and lions and tigers blush at the roots of their antennae, or whiskers."—New York Tribune.

Rain From a Cloudless Sky.

When rain falls from a cloudless sky it is generally believed that the moisture has been brought by the wind at a great elevation. In the south Atlantic it has been known to rain for more than an hour while the sky was entirely free from clouds. In the island of Mauritius it is not at all uncommon for rain to come from a cloudless heaven. Slight showers fall during the evening when the stars are shining brightly. It is thought by some that these showers are the result of particles of ice formed in the higher region of the atmosphere melting and falling.

Others attribute it to currents of warm and cold air traveling in opposite directions, with the result that the latter condenses some of the moisture in the former and causes it to fall in the form of rain.

Where the Strain Was.

Among the ancestors of Wendell Phillips were several Puritan clergymen. Perhaps it was a push of heredity which made him, at five years, of age, a preacher. His congregation was composed of circles of chairs, arranged in his father's parlor, while a taller chair, with a Bible on it, served him for a pulpit. He would harangue these wooden auditors by the hour.

"Wendell," said his father to him one day, "don't you get tired of this?"

"No, papa," wittily replied the boy, preacher: "I don't get tired, but it is rather hard on the chairs."

Superstitions.

"He was the most superstitious card player I ever saw."

"Yes, and he got so superstitious here lately that he doesn't play cards at all now."

"Is that so?"

"Yes. He suddenly discovered that there are thirteen cards in each suit."

Proof of it.

"Well," remarked the boxer, as he walked the floor with his first born, "some of my enemies have said that I couldn't put a baby to sleep, but I never believed it till now."—Week's Sport.

Pretty Good Evidence.

"He has energy enough to roll his own cigarettes and to carry a large cane. You can't expect too much of a young feller."—Exchange.
